

PARENTS OF DISABLED CHILDREN WILL NO LONGER BE FINED

Today RA Government held its regular session. The Government made amendments in the decisions mentioned in the RA Human Rights Defender's suggestion, due to which the issue of parking and transport means movement for the transferors (parents and guardians) of the children "having disability status" was solved.

With its two previous decisions the executive provided privileges for the transportation means being administrated by a disabled person or for their transportation, however this provisions did not apply for the transportation means transporting children who have disability status.
